

Stacey Schultz-Cherry

Stacey Schultz-Cherry, PhD, is a Member (Professor) in the Department of Host-Microbe Interactions at St Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, TN where she also has many leadership roles including serving as the Deputy Director of the World Health Organization Collaborating Center. Dr. Schultz-Cherry is recognized internationally for her studies on the pathogenesis of influenza and enteric viruses in high-risk populations. She is the author and co-author of over 250 research articles and is now the editor-in-chief of the Journal of Virology, Dr. Schultz-Cherry was elected President of the American Society for Virology in 2017, served as the chair of the Public and Scientific Affairs Committee for the American Society for Microbiology and is an American Academy of Microbiology Fellow.